Art Unit: 3672

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 4699-4763, drawn to a method of heating first and second portion of a hydrocarbon formation to a temperature sufficient to generate synthesis gas, producing a first and second synthesis gas, which are blended together to provide a blended synthesis gas having a selected H₂ to CO ratio, classified in class 166, subclass 261.
 - II. Claims 4764-4835, drawn to a method of heating a coal formation to a temperature sufficient to generate synthesis gas while controlling the temperature to generate and produce a synthesis gas having a selected H₂ to CO ratio, classified in class 166, subclass 261.
 - III. Claims 4836-4871, drawn to a method of heating a coal formation to a temperature sufficient to generate synthesis gas while controlling the temperature to generate and produce a synthesis gas having a different H₂ to CO ratio, directing the synthesis gas to a shift process to convert a portion of the CO into CO₂, removing the CO₂ from the resulting effluent to obtain a gas having a selected H₂ to CO ratio, classified in class 166, subclass 261.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I, II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case, the different inventions have different modes of operations and/or different effects. For example, the Group I invention requires the heating of two formation, resulting in two synthesis gas streams which must be blended to obtain the selected H₂ to CO ratio synthesis gas. The Group II invention, however, obtains such selected ratio synthesis gas by a different technique of controlling the formation temperature to producing a single, selected ratio synthesis gas product. The Group III invention controls formation temperature to specifically avoid the formation of a synthesis gas having such selected ratio, and wherein the actual gas effluent must be further processed above ground in order to obtain a final selected ratio synthesis gas product.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. A telephone call was made to Eric B. Meyertons on August 29, 2002 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
